INTRODUCTION "The Awakening of a Passion" is an American movie of 2006 of the drama / romance genre. The theme is a novel, which addresses the cholera epidemic in a village in China. The "educator's guide" was developed as an educational material, complementary to infectious and parasitic diseases, especially cholera, using the feature movie as a pedagogical strategy in Science and Biology subjects, aimed at optimizing the exploration of content and learning. The strategy can be used since Elementary and High School to Higher Education. OBJECTIVE Presenting an educational strategy that uses the cinematographic content, which plot is based on a cholera epidemic, to deep the content of infectious diseases, exploring epidemiology, etiopathogenesis, transmission, prevention and treatment. METHODOLOGY The proposal presented here is based on an exploration of a "problem" exposed in the film. From the exhibition, it is proposed that the teachers use a content analysis script, which explores the biological aspects of the agent, epidemiological, clinical and environmental. RESULT The strategy was developed to contribute and promote the use of new methodologies and alternatives for teaching biology and microbiology. CONCLUSION It presents a motivating strategy, different from the standard of daily education, which sees the involvement of students around a problem situation presented in the film, as the guiding thread for the exploration of the programmatic content, by the teacher.
